SOME CHANGES IN FPE REGIONS

Many of you newer members may be wondering just how the FPE regional situation came about. Well, let's see: First came Virginia, then Transvestia and a few years later came FPE. Virginia originally appointed a few Councillors located throughout the country to help advise her on FPE affairs and soon after incorporated Phi Pi Epsilon. The idea was to have a separate organization of people who wished to try and help each other and try to enlighten the public about TVism. FPE was intended to operate on its own merit and not as a branch of Chevalier Publications. As the number of members grew, it was apparent that some leadership within FPE was necessary as well as someone to actually conduct the business and process the new members. So.....Sheila [redacted] was appointed Field Coordinator and Fran 49 C-1 was appointed Executive Secretary. From that point in early 1965 new Councillors were appointed and actual regions set up so it would be easier to keep track of new members and give them as much help as possible. We then started publishing the Femme Forum to better communicate with each other.

Later, we became an international organization through the affiliation of the Beaumont Society in England and a group of TV's who had been organized in Sweden. This gave us a bit of satisfaction, but we were a long way from being really effective. Last year FPE held it's first election and drafted some new by-laws. During all this time we tried hard to find and develop some effective Councillors and they in turn appoint some good Deputies. So.....that about brings you up-to-date on FPE history and progress in general.

The fact remains that we all try very hard to keep this thing working, but we realize that there is so much that we still have to do. The main problem is to keep striving until we really have our Councillor system down pat. The truth is that not every Councillor is effective and there are some that are really overworked. Some of our Councillors have hundreds of miles to cover, even thousands of miles in a few cases. This fact remains a problem for both the Councillor and the new member that wants to be interviewed. Also many of the Councillors just don't have the time to correspond on a regular basis, so we end up having a new person sitting alone after she has paid her dues and naturally she is disappointed in FPE. Even though we are aware of this situation, there is sometimes little that we can do because we have to have a trustworthy person to act as a Councillor before we can appoint one. However, some of the responsibility will have to fall on you members yourselves because you are in a good position to help us find a Councillor for your area and recommend her to us. With both of us looking, we can make some real progress here.

One of the next steps to take is to establish a better regional system and we believe that we have taken a big step here. The first thing we have done is to rename the regions somewhat according to Zip Codes. This, of course, pertains to the U.S. but this is where most of the problems are. So, effective June, 1968, the regions will be numbered rather than named after Greek letters. This way we can expand or change more easily and also divide the regions into smaller areas. We will reserve the present Greek names for Chapters instead of Regions. Thus Alpha will relate to the chapter in the Los Angeles area and region 900 will mean the entire area of So. California. Another example is the area we presently call Pi, which will remain as Pi in a chapter sense for the Northern New Jersey people, but the state of New Jersey will become region No. 70.

Some new regions where we need new Councillors are: No. 850(Arizona, New Mexico) No. 480(Michigan), No. 210(Baltimore, D.C., and West Virginia), No. 190(East Pa. and Philadelphia), and in some areas of Canada. What this all means, ladies, is that we can now form a new region as members turn up in a specific area and what we hope will result is more and effective help to our members. Since the U.S. is already divided up according to Zip Code areas, we will not be dreaming up a new name for each region.

Under this somewhat new system we will merely be dividing the larger regions into smaller ones(as we find a new Councillor for the new region), but in most cases nothing drastic will happen to change things. We must remember that an FPE Councillor's main job is to interview new members so that they will have a contact point and be able to meet other members(if they are available or if a group is functioning in the area). We will still continue to have chapters (we hope!!!!!!) and they can be made up of one or several FPE regions as the situation will allow. But under this new system, we will be able to set up new regions faster and greatly speed up the screening of new members. From an administrative point it will be most helpful in sorting out new members and simpler to keep track of them. Now, if we can continue to find enough Councillors to go around things should work better. Let's give it a try! There will be a complete list of regions and Councillors in the Annual Report in July.

SOCIAL NEWS - By Laura 35 S-2

The LAMBDA girls held their Annual April Fool's Day Party--consistently feminine--on March 30th. The cause celebre' was to welcome Agnes, a new member into the "Lamb's Club" in which we're sure she'll have much fun. Marilyn, Brendalyn, Florence and 3 GG's all did much to make Agnes feel 'at home'. Within the month, several of the Lambdas had an enjoyable evening at the home of another new member, Vickie. The Pacific Northwest chapter may be small, but they believe in doing rather than just talking about it. Congratulations, girls!!

However, because and recom here.

The news of the ALPHA's February meeting arriving too late for the last Forum, it was too interesting to pass up. Being a very well organized chapter, Chair-ladies for various committees were appointed: By-Laws - Jeanette; Program and Entertainment - Inez; Refreshments - Sandy; Hospitality - Donna. To the envy of all of the rest of FPEland, Alpha had a talk and demonstration by a top-flight movie make-up man. Through the instigation of Lisa, private classes in make-up are being arranged for members and their GG's. The line forms at the right! Sorry girls, no correspondence courses!

The March meeting of the Alphas was highlighted by Virginia, who brought her tape of her appearance on the Allan Burke television show. Must have been a success, for Ginny now has a repeat appearance scheduled. The White Elephant Goodie Sale fattened the Alpha treasury.....as did the buffet luncheon to the girls, prepared by Sandy. Among the announcements was the scheduled Psycho Drama demonstration by Alpha's loyal friend, Dr. Anderson....a wonderful chance to find out what "it's" all about. High on the list of interesting things to come is the Open House on June 8th, intended to introduce professional people - doctors, lawyers, marriage counsellors, teachers, psychiatrists - and just plain interested people. Inez reports a host of new ideas for making meetings more interesting....Operation Sharing is off to a good start. Two of the members, Irene and Maxine, will be setting up a Polaroid Picture Studio and will assist the girls in taking "glamour portraits". Hollywood scouts please note!

In THETA TAU land, Sally and her girls are making plans for a gala evening when Virginia arrives in Minneapolis on her lecture tour and appearance on WCCO, plus perhaps a television station or two. In addition to their regular monthly meetings, the Theta Tau's publish an interesting and sparkling newsletter and would like to exchange them with any other group or chapter who does the same. June is editor while Carol attends to publishing. (Write via Chevalier).

Auntie Kay [redacted] of BETA has commenced a constructive and ambitious project to collect and annotate the various laws and ordinances affecting TVs all over the country. She would like volunteers with 'legal connections' to help by researching their regions. Let's all help! We might just as well face the issue squarely without becoming obsessed with fear or illusions!

Hear Ye Femmes! With our leading lady Virginia embarking on a personal appearance tour during May and June, she will be criss-crossing the country and would love to meet 'her girls' at every stop. Consult TVia #50 for a listing of her itinerary. Turn out in force, girls, and show Ginny how much you appreciate her efforts in our behalf! Notices of when and where she'll be stopping have been mailed out to the membership.

From CHI(Chicago) we hear many marvelous words of encouragement. Chi is growing. At every meeting they have a little ceremony of welcome for the new members which certainly puts them at ease and to feel a part of the chapter. The Chi's have established the practice of having a Raffle at every meeting, featuring things every gal can use and wants. What girl can resist a bargain? A party is being arranged for Virginia on her visit to Chicago on the 11th. Barbara Lee is busily working out, with her committee, the details for a FPE picnic planned for early June. A splendid idea, Barbie! Gives the reluctant GG's a chance to meet the members informally and should pave the way for greater understanding. Besides, picnic are FUN!!

ALPHA EPSILON girls don't need a 'special occasion' to warrant a meeting. They're always up and about, visiting between each others' homes, or congregating at someone's home for gossip, wig parties, play games--all as is done in higher social circles. Crystal reports an especially gala party held recently in Cupertino, some little distance from San Francisco. Most of the attendees drove en-femme and had the time of their lives there. Their "educate the public" campaign is proceeding smoothly and the next thing on the agenda is an Open House. Let's follow the lead of AE girls!

TV LITERATURE REVIEW

In FF #14 we published a "literature review" written by Geri 49 K-3 for the first time. It was intended to point out and briefly discuss some of the books that contain some, no matter how brief, reference to TVism and/or a related subject. The idea that Geri is trying to put forth is to just which books (other than the usual type TV material) at least touch on our area of interest. If you look over the lists as they come to you, it should save you a lot of money and time in that you won't have to spend hours looking for something that just isn't there or buy something because of its 'cover' and waste your money. Since we have all been "taken" from time to time, but continue to maintain a pretty good yen for reading material, Geri's version of the "TV Guide" should prove helpful to us all. We hope that it will be of service to our membership and wish to thank Geri for her efforts!

As threatened last time, this is to be a review--or quick summary of the TV in modern spy and adventure fiction. Since Burgess and MacLean demonstrated in 1954 that the grass is greener on the third side of the fence, and after publication of the more salacious details of the Profumo incident, the spy-adventure-crime genre, particularly from British authors(who invented both the field and the popularity) has included this in a number of books.

"I'm okay, how are you and the kids enjoying your vacation."

The earliest examples I have found in my own reading relate to Albert Payson Terhune's Lad, A Dog of Sunnybrook Farm. What a book to put in the hands of a teenage TV! Lad, noble brute that he is, "reads" the maid who is an English jewel thief in disguise. (He "reads" him because the maid enjoys slipping off for a relaxing pipeful on occasion, and Lad's nose detects the difference.) Yecchh!!! For the first time in my life, I was cheering on the bad guys. (If you feel the urge to rush out and buy a copy, don't bother; the "goody" is confined to about one page.)

Then there is Dumas' Count of Monte Cristo, wherein the Count encounters a group of highwaymen who employ a beardless youth of 15 who looks absolutely smashing in a pink, satin ball-gown, luring amorous and wealthy young men to secluded spots in order to do them dirty. Again---one page.

I also recall a fanciful tale--name and author lamentably passed out of memory, brought home by a younger brother, involving a young man who poses as a nobleman's daughter in order to foil a kidnapping. Quite an interesting tale, as I recall it, because it goes into a lot of detail explaining how the young man kept up the disguise over a period of several months. (See, he takes the place of the girl--and like that.) Perhaps someone could supply a name for this?

The more recent publications, however, universally cast the TV in either the role of the villian(or rather, the villian displays TV tendencies), or else set the stories in settings where the hero is likely to run into a TV or two(the use of TV here, includes the HO--in fact, that's usually made explicit.)--in Greenwich Village, Paris, Tangiers, or Berlin.(Tourists take note. By the way, Fielding's Guide To Europe lists Amsterdam as the capital for both TVism and HO activities--in case you're going abroad--

Some of the more interesting of these include the following: The Return of Colonel Pho(author has escaped me), which includes a little something for everybody; the French Doll by Victor Canning--a very good adventure story that features a well-written encounter between hero and a female impersonator in an impersonator bar in Paris. (This--as most of the others mentioned here,are all in paperback, and if you have a used paperback store around, you should be able to find them for 10-25¢); The Kremlin Letter by Noel Behn likewise is top-notch about an entire spy-organization(private, for sale to highest bidder) which includes a female impersonator(in order to cover that angle)--the book is worth reading anyway. Likewise with Adam Hall's The Quiller Memorandum which uses a reverse kind of TVism, and casts it in somewhat existential terms. A good book, but you'll probably be disappointed in the TVism as it's handled.

Two recent Lancer paperbacks by Don Rico are interesting: The Man From Pansy and The Daisy Dilemma. The hero is an FBI agent who is ordered to pose as an HO in order to foil all manners of dastardly plots. (This creates some interesting complications as the hero is a roaring hetero--and the opposition is always trying to trap him. In spite of the theme, the books are filled full of interesting things (Probably the funniest thing about them is the cover on TMFP: a limp-wristed, nude GI-Joe doll that has been roughly plastered with plasticine.) Especially read The Daisy Dilemma. Honeydew Melon is my idea of a villain.....

On the strictly-for-laughs side, the Ted Marks books (The Man From Orgy) series is filled with all genders of participants. Take your choice, but the two most interesting (although this is not necessarily a recommendation), is The Nine Month Caper in which the hero ends up pregnant, and The Real Gone Girls (in which he visits one of those places in Switzerland to get un-pregnant). This last one is one of the funniest books I can recall reading in some time. One thing included in virtually all Ted Marks's books includes one character (usually a villain) who is hermaphroditic and alternates between one role and the other.

I would especially recommend, however, the books of Chester Himes (featuring those two Harlem cops, Coffin-Ed Johnson and Grave-Digger Jones). The books are interesting in themselves, and they are filled with all sorts of interesting Harlem characters, including female impersonators, and in several of them, there are appearances of three sisters--who are brothers--you do see what I mean, don't you?

Bob Tralins's The Chic Chick Spy ("The Miss from S.I.S.") involves a diabolical plot to change everybody's sex by hormonal double-dealing. It's a rotten book, but an interesting story line that I'm trying to do something with in one of my own efforts. One bright spot is when the somewhat bewildered male assistant of the heroine is volunteered to penetrate the enemy organization, and he is somewhat altered (the book ends with the enemy routed, and the hero adjusting his lipstick.)

George Baxt's book A Queer Kind of Death is a kick-y sort of story--featuring a gay Negro cop (Pharaoh Love). Actually, the book is fairly well done, and the ending is everything one could desire, with the villain turning out to be one of the prominent villainesses as well.

"Are we gaining acceptance or losing ground?"

Don Holiday's "Man From CAMP" series is pretty vile, but the Hero?? who is strictly from Gaysville usually gets dolled up in order to foil the villains (who usually represent a Lesbian organization). The two (of about ten) that I've seen at my local dirty-book store have frankly turned my stomach.

Other titles, not necessarily recommended: The Silken Baroness by Philip Atlee (hero attends a private orgy, where he meets his wife who disappeared during their honeymoon; she's real, though). The Adjusters: Doomsday Vendetta (villainess turns out to be male). The Rockaby Contract by Philip Atlee (hero, same one as in TSB, discovers enemy strongman all dolled up, kills him, and deposits his silk-clad body.....Terrible). The Secret City by Colin Wilson--villain is a TV;

There not

There are innumerable others, including most of the Nick Carter novels (which are not worth reading, even if they're free--not dirty, just bad--imagine what would happen if Nan Gilbert tried to write a straight story.)

However, this should supply you with a few titles to watch for--next time, if there is a next time, I'll mention some of the contemporary surrealistic fiction that really exploits the TV theme as an aesthetic element. This genre of fiction sees more significance in the fact that a male character is wearing a dress, than what color it is, etc., but in the course of all this, something meaningful occasionally gets said.

DEAR FRAN

I would like to say thank you for the welcome in FF #13 and also express my appreciation to all the sisters of FPE for all that they have written in TVia, Femme Mirror and the Femme Forum. For almost a quarter of a century I have been a TV hidden in the bedroom. Having met Diana Joyce in February was really the greatest. Just to be able to sit down and talk about things in the open was the best therapy that I've ever had. I'm sure that I'm one of the 8 sisters who has an F Class GG-- she hasn't been told yet; but with help such as I have received from Virginia, Sheila and Ann via the mails, and the personal visit from Diana Joyce, I've great hopes that my GG will be a Class A wife in several years.

Any sisters that plan to visit Mexico could be welcomed in Mexico City by my brother, if they will write to me several months in advance via CONTACT. Having been raised on the Eastern Seaboard of the good old U.S.A., and now living in Mexico, there are many times that maybe my rusty, and imperfect Spanish can help out for other sisters. Again I'd like to thank all the sisters of FPE for all the moral support that they have given me.

Barbara Anne FM-S-1

Editors Note Thanks to you Senorita Barbara Anne for taking the time to write to us.

Dear Fran,

Once again I am asking for help. When a new Councillor for this area was elected, I wrote to her. As we live several hundred miles apart, it is almost impossible for us to get together. I don't know why, but it has been almost 4 months since I have heard from her. According to the FPE membership list there are several sisters in my area. I would like to contact them, if possible; how do I attempt this contact? Should I send a short note, for them, to you? Or, can I get their addresses from you? Fran, can you help me on this?

Beverly Jean 20 E-1

Dear Bev,

Your letter is not the first of its kind that we have received. I wish that your problem was not somewhat common in certain areas of the country. As noted in the editorial of this issue, we are aware of the problem and are working on it wherever possible. The problem is not to merely appoint a Councillor for your area, but to find a person that we feel has the time, interest and ability to act as Councillor. One of our officers or present Councillors must also know her personally so that we are sure she is a trustworthy person. So it is not always easy to come up with someone, as you can see. However, this situation does not help you at the present time, does it?

In the meantime, why don't you pick out one or more of the members (as listed in the annual membership roster) and write an introductory letter about yourself also explaining your circumstances. You should include your mailing address so that these persons can answer your letter directly. Your letters can then be sent to CONTACT (the address is listed in the back of the latest TVia) for forwarding. Now, if you don't know who to write to in your area you can write to me, (Fran, c/o Chevalier Publications) and I will try to suggest someone as near as possible to you who might be interested in getting acquainted with a new FPE friend via the mail. We cannot give out anyone's address through FPE or guarantee that you will get an answer to your letter, but will help you and keep helping you until we do find a pen-pal for you. As you know, you must be interviewed by a Councillor or Deputy before you can attend a meeting (there is no chapter in your immediate area). If you are willing to travel to the nearest place where a group does meet from time to time, let me know and I will try to arrange a meeting with the Councillor in that area.

Perhaps this is not all very encouraging to you as a member of FPE and we don't blame you one bit, but hope that you can see our problem too. The truth is that unless leadership comes forth from the membership itself, we must wait until we can seek out someone to help us in areas where there is no Councillor at the present time. This also applies in getting a chapter started, even though there are several members in an area. So keep your chin up dear.....perhaps together we can solve the problem, at least in your area.

SHEILA IN TV-LAND

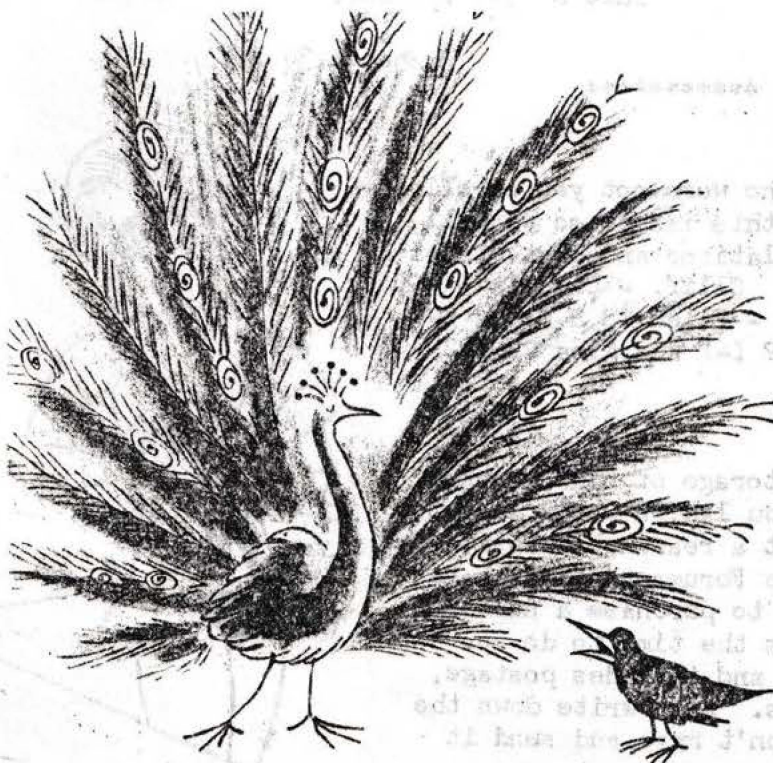

Clipping of the Month (from the Los Angeles Times) "Babies' Sex Changed by Light Rays" - It seems that Dr. John Ott, of the Environmental Health and Light Research Institute, Sarasota, Florida, has been playing around with colored lights in the course of photographic experiments on growing plants, and learned that the color of the light affected the relative growth of pistils and stamens. This led to a commercial application right fast when he tried it on animals; blue light for little GIRL chinchillas, pink light for BOY minks! You have to raise the parents in those colors, of course; once our little furry friend is born it's too late to do much for HIM. But it works, even though it reverses the traditional color code; so now he wants to try it on people. Isn't it curious how many of our transisters were born in August? About half the Pi Region seems to have been, as we always have a big birthday party then.....So calculated back, that means we were conceived in December, and you know how romantic those multi-colored lights on the Christmas trees are.....Dr. Ott, do you think we just might be the end result of a confusing illumination?????????????

Another clipping. Helen Hennessey's Boutique, consoles the GGs who got caught in the fast-moving fashion change: "Were you caught with your tough chic showing? Haven't you had time yet to round out the lean and hungry look that was just right for last year's togas sans ruffles? You don't have soft, flowing hair because you just got up the courage to cut it Twiggy-style? Are you totally caught short of that REAL-GIRL look?" Helen goes on to say that Science has an answer for you in "GLUE", the '68 Girls' Best Friend. Buy what you need and stick it on; everything you need to make a quick conversion from Coureges to Scarlett O'Hara, ready to slip on and shade away that over-masculine look.... What she doesn't add, though, is that if the GG has a real, live TV around, she should not be too proud to ask for experienced help!

Susanna sent me a clipping and told me a little more: ABC is planning a TV show in the Fall, on TV. A young Canadian actor, Peter Kastner, will play both Timothy and Timmy. The inside dope is that it will be the old story of the boy who HAS to cross-dress to get in to see his girl-friend; I do hope it's done in the spirit of "Some Like It Hot" rather than "Charley's Aunt".

Additional data on the Klinefelter Syndrome(extra female chromosomes in males) continues to show that they are something entirely different from TV's; mentally retarded, anti-social, ranging from mentally ill to criminally insane. They run about 3% of the population, but 7 to 11% of the mental hospital and prison population. The only nice thing about them is that they are taller than average!

I managed one of these wild tours last month, and managed it better than usual, too, since I got home without needing oxygen on the return trip. Something to be said for traveling light(pictures only, no dresses); you get a couple of extra hours sleep at each stop! Biggest benefit is to Avis, who cosily takes over MY space in brother's suitcase so she can carry 60 pounds of costumes-oh, well. First two nights at Gisele's, who is still not completely unpacked from their return from Germany a year ago... But things will be better now, and she plans to start answering all those letters that have piled up. I'll believe in mine when I get it.....Didn't get to see her, but talked with

"You FP's are always showing off!"

Barbara Lee, who is pleased to say that Chi is picking up members as a result of Virginia's television shows there.

Next stop was San Francisco and a delightful evening with Phyllis, Jan, Crystal and others of Epsilon. We met our first female TS; he passed beautifully, not even Avis (who can read the average TV from 3000 miles away) noticed anything odd.

And so on to LA, where we spent the night with the happiest person in this or any other world, Charles V. Prince. The new house is all as described in TVia #49, a real dream palace ideal for living a double life. Two of everything, including the cats. We went on to near dawn discussing plans for research, education, public appearances and such. During the early part of the evening we also had the pleasure of Lucienne and her wife's company. This was a double pleasure, because Mrs. L. is living proof that an E wife can promote herself to B or better, with a little help from Msgr. [redacted] and other good influences.

Next morning, off to lunch with Inez, in another dream-house north of LA. She is also enjoying a double life, but is more retired than Virginia, so can relax more. And does!! Then home, to find the PO Box was mostly filled with letters addressed to "Resident", whoever SHE is. One final trip, just in time to get in this issue, was to the Nu Region, where I met the charming editor of the new GAMMA GOODIES, their chapter newsletter. (That makes three chapters in the act; how about making it six??) Dorothy 21 D-3 and I were overnight guests at Betsey's place in Rhode Island, one of several delightful meeting places this enterprising chapter uses in its "rotating plan". Barbara 7 H-2 also joined us, for the early part of the evening (till about 1 A.M.). We talked all about the education campaign, and how they are looking forward to Virginia's visit there this month. They plan to use the card system innovated by Ann Mailo, but feel that one pressing need is to break away from the word "transvestite", which is getting more bad than good publicity. Any suggestions??

That's "30" for now,

Sheila 30 B-2

ADDITIONAL NEW MEMBERS

We have some other new members who were not yet enrolled at the time we started printing this issue, so we will just add them here. So congratulations and best wishes to the following new FPE ladies: Calif. - Claudia 5 G-?; Conn., - Donna Lee 7 W-3; Illinois - Ellen 13 M-6 and two new gals from Michigan - Diane 22 L-1 and Nina 22 L-2.

BACK ISSUES AVAILABLE

We are running out of room for storage of back issues of the Femme Forum. If any of you ladies would like to get some good reading material at a reasonable cost, you might like to pick up some of the Forums that you have not received. If you would like to purchase a number of the Forums at 50¢ each, now is the time to do so. This price is less than our cost and includes postage, so it is a good deal for you gals. Just write down the numbers of the issues that you don't have and send it in together with your check and name and code. We are low on some issues, but still do have a supply of them all from #1 to the current issue. How about it?

1968 MEMBERSHIP LIST

If you know of anyone who has overlooked paying her 1968 FPE dues, please give her a subtle reminder that she is a bit overdue. She probably has already been removed from the mailing list and may be wondering where her Femme Forum #14 is. So after this issue(#15) gets off in the mail, we will start working on the 1968 Annual Report and Membership List. Naturally, we don't wish to leave anyone off of the membership roster if they have intentions of staying with us in FPE. So how about some gentle(feminine) hints from some of you paid members to some of those "non-paids" so we can all turn our attentions to other important matters. The general opinion of the membership has been to not include the city of each member, so we will have to come up with some other type of area identification on the roster.

That's about all for this issue gal-a-bells. Let's all have a happy Spring and Summer. The Annual Report will be out in Mid-July and the next Femme Forum in late Summer or early Fall....whatever you call September. Be good.....girls!
